

*The science of attraction
C1 - Listening Part 1*

What are the five components of attraction?

<https://ed.ted.com/lessons/the-science-of-attraction-dawn-maslar#watch>

*What are the five
components of
attraction?*

<https://ed.ted.com/lessons/the-science-of-attraction-dawn-maslar#watch>

eyes (sight), nose (smell), ears (hearing), touch, taste

Listen to the recording and write the missing words or phrases.

1. The feeling of attraction comes from your _____ in a form of quick complex calculations.
2. Long hair and smooth, scar-free skin are all signs of _____, fertility and good health.
3. Our noses can pick up _____ which are also known as pheromones.
4. In the experiment, three women at different stages of their ovulation cycle wore the same _____ for three nights.
5. Women prefer the smell of men with MHC molecules different from theirs to provide their youngs with a _____.
6. Females are more attracted to males with lower voices that suggest a _____.
7. Holding a cup of hot beverage makes us perceive people as happier, more social, _____ and better-natured.
8. Most men and women have reported losing interest in another person after a _____.
9. Once you're attracted to someone else, your pulse increases, your pupils _____ and your body produces more energy.

Listen to the recording and write the missing words or phrases.
ANSWERS

1. The feeling of attraction comes from your brain in a form of quick complex calculations.
2. Long hair and smooth, scar-free skin are all signs of youth, fertility and good health.
3. Our noses can pick up natural chemical signals which are also known as pheromones.
4. In the experiment, three women at different stages of their ovulation cycle wore the same T-shirt for three nights.
5. Women prefer the smell of men with MHC molecules different from theirs to provide their youngs with a major survival advantage.
6. Females are more attracted to males with lower voices that suggest a larger body size.
7. Holding a cup of hot beverage makes us perceive people as happier, more social, more generous and better-natured.
8. Most men and women have reported losing interest in another person after a bad first kiss.
9. Once you're attracted to someone else, your pulse increases, your pupils dilate and your body produces more energy.

*Do you agree with the study? Why (not)?
What about people who fall in love over the internet?
What is love?*